New forest board might allow nonresident members

Bethel selectmen last week reviewed a draft ordinance to establish the Bingham Forest Authority, a board that would oversee the 2,300-acre parcel acquired last year from the Bethel Water District. The draft calls for a "fivemember authority appointed by selectmen and

Temporary cell tower proposed for Phoenix property By ALISON ALOISIO

An application for a temporary 65-foot cell tower, to be placed on the property of the Phoenix restaurant in Newry was presented to the Planning Board last week,

Northeast Wireless Networks LLC of Falmouth wants to put a utility pole with cell panel antennae on top just off the left rear corner of the restaurant, which is located across from Sunday River Ski Resort's South Ridge Lodge.

The tower would function for only six months, according to David Duplissis, director of field operations and program management for Northeast Wireless. It is intended to proval to place a permamile area around it.

Northeast provides a roaming-only 4G network to other carriers who may have poor service in an area, he said.

If approved by the board and successful in operation, Northeast would return to the board for apbe experimental, and will nent tower, approximately

As for the appearance of the temporary tower, Duplissis said it would be brown to blend in against trees behind it, which he said are about 55 feet tall. The pole would be buried seven feet into the ground, and rise 58 above it.

The discussion was the first and very preliminary step in the budget-building process.

Casablanca closes; new investors sought

Bethel lost its movie theater in 2012 when the Casablanca closed. The theater operated for 17 years, opening in 1995 as part of the Bethel Station project. Business owner Elaine Riendeau said the number of customers had been declining for several years. She also said the film projectors would have had to be converted to digital in the near future as filmmakers phase out the 35 mm technology. The cost would have been in the tens of thousands of dollars, she said. At year's end Town Manager Jim Doar said the town was trying to help find qualified investors to re-open the the-

Directional signs draw ire of businesses

Frustration among Bethel businesses this year over their inability to attract customers under the restrictions on directional signs imposed by the town's Sign Ordinance led to the formation of a special committee to reform the ordinance. Last spring a petition had initially called for a vote at town meeting to abolish the ordinance, but selectmen ultimately decided to present a warrant article instead to form the committee and hire a consultant to advise members. Its purpose, as described by Town Manager Jim Doar: "To simplify wayfaring throughout the town for vehicle and transit users through development of a comprehensive signage system suitable for immediate implementation. The plan will facilitate travel, commerce and visitation to and within the town, while strengthening historic identity and sense of place for districts, neighborhoods and signature destinations." The committee has been at work since this summer, with a proposed ordinance expected to be ready for a vote at the 2013 annual town meeting.

Former BWD land readied for new role

The Bethel Conservation Commission and other interested parties spent 2012 researching and preparing plans to turn the town's new 2,300-acre Bingham Forest into an all-season recreational resource – but one that would still remain true to the wishes of William Bingham II that it remain a conservation area. As work moved forward on a timber-management plan, a memorandum of understanding with the Bethel Water District, and an overall management plan, volunteers and consultants incorporated ideas for a variety of recreational trails: hiking, mountain-biking, crosscountry skiing and snowshoeing. Plans called for tying the mountain-biking trails to similar, adjacent trails owned by Sunday River Ski Resort, Those spearheading the recreational effort saw it as an opportunity to bring more tourist/recreation business to the area. At the end of the year selectmen were reviewing a proposed ordinance to form a Bethel Forest Authority to oversee the resource. A special town meeting to vote on the ordinance is expected in late January.

Woodstock wind turbine project has stormy debut

The new Spruce Mountain Wind farm in Woodstock drew complaints from its neighbors, particularly summer residents on nearby ponds. Residents claimed the sound from the 10 turbines was loud enough to at least be an annoyance, and in some cases, cause symptoms such as headaches. In August Patriot Renewables, SMW's parent company, commissioned a special monitoring study to try to determine if the sound exceeded allowable decibel levels. The study concluded it did not. But a special committee that had been formed earlier in the year to draw up a proposed new wind ordinance for the town tried to ensure that future wind projects would remain far enough away from residences to eliminate any effect that sound levels – even those legal by state standards - might have on people. They proposed decibel restrictions at property lines be tighter than state law requires, and also required notification of any property owner within two miles of towers. The draft ordinance will shortly be reviewed by the town attorney, and is expected to be placed on the warrant for the annual town meeting in March.

Senior Citizens Club celebrates 50th anniversary

When nearly 60 members of the Bethel Senior Citizens Club gathered recently at the Bethel Inn for their annual Christmas luncheon, they marked the organization's 50th year.

"It's our 50th anniversary," said President Caroline Gould, "and that makes this holiday event extra special."

The Club was founded by 23 members in May, 1962, "as a social, political, service and educational organization." Gould praised the wisdom of the founding members whose ability to look at the big picture finds the organization still following the goals set forth 50 years ago. "Names of founding members are still well known by the community," said Gould. They include Florence Emery, Gladys Cross, Maude Hunt, Thirzah Gibson, Mable Robertson, Maggie Lowell, Sarah Stevens, Sylvia Conroy, Stella Moore, Myrtle Lapham, Minnie Wilson, Charles Hayward, Pearl Tibbetts, Emily Saunders, Jane Kneeland, Mary Ladd, Greig,

Brown, Gertie Bartlett, Doris Lord, Eva Brown, Mel Valentine and Barbara Douglass. Douglass is the only living member of this troupe. She now lives with her daughter in New Hampshire.

Gould said today's membership stands at 82. "We continue to offer seniors an opportunity to social-

Fireworks over fireworks

Fireworks became a hot issue in several area towns this year with the new state law allowing their sale and use. Woodstock and Greenwood, which both have several lakes within their borders, began receiving complaints about consumer fireworks being set off at all hours. In November, Greenwood passed an ordinance (as allowed by the state law) restricting use to specific holiday periods and times. Woodstock received two petitions also requesting a ban or restrictions, but at year's end selectmen had not decided whether to pursue it, Andover banned fireworks by a town meeting vote in March.

Museum breaks ground

The Maine Mineral and Gem Museum, originally scheduled to open this year, delayed its opening until 2013 because the size of the project doubled. Originally slated for the former Kennett Realty building on Main Street in Bethel, the MMGM added the former Viewer's Choice Video store building to provide more space. The buildings will be joined, and house noteworthy Maine gems from collections around the world, as well as research, gem cutting, lecture and other activities. The museum held a groundbreaking ceremony in October.

Andover eyes withdrawal

Prompted by continued concerns regarding the future of the Andover Elementary School, Andover residents voted in 2012 to prepare a plan to withdraw from SAD 44. In 2011 the SAD 44 School Board voted to close the school for budget reasons, but the town agreed to pay an extra $214,000 to keep it open another year. The town then negotiated a lower extra cost of $65,000 to keep it open for the current school year. But this fall the town decided to thoroughly explore its options for educating its student by preparing a withdrawal plan that would spell out the educational and financial arrangements in the event the town withdrew. A town committee has prepared the plan, and last week submitted it to SAD 44. It will next negotiate the details with the district. The vote on withdrawal is expected to take place this spring.

Newry Byways plan nixed

Concerns about property rights that surfaced in Newry in 2011 continued through 2012. An effort by the state and the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments to update a 2000 plan for the Route 26 Scenic Byway through Newry met with stiff resistance. Some residents worried that the plan could prompt the town to pass stricter ordinances to protect scenic views and threaten their property rights. A committee of local residents was formed and began work on the plan. But after continued opposition, the town held a special town meeting in August and voted against supporting development of the plan, ending the town's participation.

Bethel dog park planned

A project that began quietly this year attracted some opposition toward the end of 2012. A citizen committee proposed the construction with private funds of a dog park near Bethel's Pathway, behind the C.N. Brown store on Route 2. But as informal plans progressed, snowmobilers expressed concern that the park could negatively impact a major trail that runs through the site. Others worried about liability issues. At year's end the issue went to the Bethel Planning Board and the parties looked for a solution to satisfy all.

Telstar project approved

In November SAD 44 voters approved a $2.5 million energy and ventilation upgrade project at the Telstar complex. Approximately half the money has been put aside by voters in budget votes in recent years. The other half will come from a near-0 percent interest federal Qualified School Construction Bond. The path to approval was not an easy one, as the School Board wavered in September on whether to send the proposal to referendum or wait until next year to propose a modified project. Questions also arose about the expected savings after the debt on the Crescent Park Elementary School is paid off, and about the need for the ventilation upgrade when it was discovered just before the vote that years ago insulation had been placed inside ventilation louvers at Telstar. An evaluation by consultant Honeywell concluded the insulation had little effect on air circulation and that an upgrade was still warranted. In late December the School Board approved the procedural arrangements on the bond and the contractor (Honeywell) so the project can proceed, beginning in January.

RECONCILIATION COMMISSION NAMED To the Editor:

Mainers can be very proud that we are the first state in the country to engage in a collaborative effort with the Indigenous Peoples of this land to address the hurtful child welfare practices imposed on them. The Maine Wabanaki-State Child Welfare Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) will create a common understanding of what, for generations, has had disastrous impact on the four Maine Wabanaki tribes, the Aroostook Band of Micmacs, Houlton Band of Maliseet Indians, Passamaquoddy Tribe, and Penobscot Indian Nation. The TRC has three key purposes: 1) to create a common understanding between the Wabanaki and the State of Maine concerning what happened and is happening to Wabanaki children in the child welfare system; 2) to act on the information revealed during the TRC to implement systems change to improve the system and to better support the children and families served; and 3) to promote healing both among Wabanaki children and their families and the people who administered a widely acknowledged less than ideal system.

On Dec. 18, the Selection Panel for the TRC announced the five Commissioners they have chosen to begin this process. They are Matt Dunlap, Maine's newly elected Secretary of State, gkisedtanamoogk, a citizen of the Wampanaog, a Native elder and teacher, Dr. Gail Werrbach, professor at the University of Maine and Director of their School of Social Work, Sandra White Hawk, a citizen of the Sicangu Lakota and Director of the First Nations Repatriation Institute, and Carol Wishcamper, former chair of the Maine State Board of Education.

The Whitman Library in Bryant Pond has asked me to speak about the Wabanaki Truth and Reconcilation Commission, as I have been serving on the Communications Subcommittee. If you are interested in learning more, I invite you to attend on Thursday, Jan. 10 from 2-3 p.m. Also please join the Maine Wabanaki Truth and Reconciliation Facebook page or go to the website: www.mainetribaltrc.org.

'How do you like the climate?'

Not till after World War II when we came back to live here had we been any place with rip-roaring storms. The impact of most experiences viewed from the vantage point of age is often dwarfed, but the noise and flashes seemed more awesome now than they did in my childhood. Memories of bombings were awakened and the end of the storm was welcome. We had a few violent storms here, man impotent against nature.

We were eating lunch in the kitchen one noon. Came a black cloud and rain; we started up to close windows and doors. Kristie came flying around the end of the house and into the sheltered south corner. She was not at all afraid of lightening. Often we had seen her during a flash placidly grazing and not lifting her head. She, who never came within six feet of an electric fence, had flown to us for help. B.B. ran for her halter and led her into the barn. She calmed at once when she saw him, having always associated only good things with man. By the time we had closed all the doors, the storm was over, going as quickly as it had come. We went to see what had startled Kristie.

The trunk of one of our fence-row maples was black; all the bark had been burned off. We had to cut it down. The northwest section of the electric wire fence had vanished. We found a few scraps of it here and there in the grass no larger than a corkscrew bottle opener. The outside telephone box had been blasted into the air and was up under the French prune plum tree. Not serious damage at all. "But why did it have to hit the red maple?" I moaned.

to hit the red maple?" I moaned.

"Be glad that it didn't hit Kristie or the house," said B.B.
On an anniversary of D.Day, never forgetten in this house.

On an anniversary of D Day, never forgotten in this household as B.B. had gone in with the first wave of troops that morning, we had another severe storm. Rain started mildly in mid afternoon. I put the tubs out to collect water. The rain came down harder. I went out and put baskets over newly-transplanted petunia seedlings in the black tub by the pumphouse. Hailstones as big as marbles hurled down. Rain again. From six o'clock until nine was a continuous thunderstorm. After the first half hour, there seemed to be no place in the house to sit down where the lightning did not seem to be coming through the windows directly at you. I wandered about from room to room, never finding a haven except halfway up the stairs. By eight o'clock I decided it would never end. Some whim made me afraid to light the gas stove so I lit a candle and fixed a cold supper. Just as we were sitting down, several claps of thunder and flashes of lightning coming simultaneously were terrifying. I was sure we would go up in flame each time and be off on the devil's broomstick. At eight-thirty B.B. announced that, storm or no storm he was going to town for his "New York Sunday Times" which came on Monday except during July and August. "You'll find me dead and the house burned flat when you get back," I protested, "and a tree will fall on the truck and kill you as you drive down the narrow road." But he went, He was soon back, the stores were closed, there had been no electricity on in town since six o'clock. Everyone was a bit scared. By ten o'clock the storm was waning, the thunder dimmer, the lightening farther away in wavering horizontals in place of the vertical zigzag stabs. We

In the morning we found that the truck had been hit and the windshield wipers burned out. Bricks had toppled from the kitchen chimney and were strewn about the yard. We were in an exposed place in an open field on this hilltop. Maybe someday we would be fatally struck but anything could happen to anybody anywhere so why live in fear. I remembered that years ago when home for a week, I was sitting on the side steps at Brick End in a very mild shower. T.R. came racing out of his house, jumped into the truck waving for me to come. I ran to join him. The Abbott house on Swan Hill on the opposite end of the mountain from Celladore had been struck. All the neighbors were racing to help save what they could from the burning buildings. This was on a Fourth of July. I told B.B. we were safe; it was only on holidays that harm might come.

A few years later he came in from cruising a part of the woodlot where we almost never went. He had found a small section where seven trees were all dying from having the bark burned black. This might be a focal point of attraction, maybe underground there was a strong vein of water. Maybe this was what saved us. This was one of the few times when it would have been fun to have been rich; to have drilled for water there and discovered what was underground.

Barb Dion, who attended the luncheon with the Senior College members, became the newest member of the Senior Citizens. She said she has always wanted to join and meet a new group of people and the invitation gave her the opportunity. She added, "I see the Senior Citizens meeting as a very effective community-building activity."

Fran Head, vice president, also serves as program chair, assisted by Rebecca Keen and Sandra Gunther.

Head said the club had several speakers over the past year to keep members updated. Jarrod Crockett spoke on issues in the legislature that affect seniors. Sheriff Wayne Gallant talked about safety for seniors, and gave out special emergency whistles that produce a loud, shrill sound. Robert Goldman informed the members about supplemental insurance for Medicare Part B.

Another speaker, Roberta Broomhall from the Bethel Ambulance Service, is well-known to club members as she attends all meetings to be available to take and record blood pressures. This is a service of the Ambulance Service's community wellness program.

Broomhall talked about signs and symptoms of a stroke and heart attack. She gave members refrigerator magnets bearing this important information. She also reminded them to be sure their house numbers are displayed prominently.

The Senior Citizens are also interested in collaborating with other groups, This fall they were invited to a special matinee performance of the Senior College Players Christmas plays. In turn, Senior College members were invited to the Christmas luncheon.

"We're hoping to have similar invitational opportunities in the future," said Head, who coordinated this effort with Roberta Taylor from Western Mountains Senior College. Both Head and Gould are members of the planning committee for the Senior College's 10th anniversa-, ry spring program, which will involve the Senior Citizens.

The club is also collaborating with Crescent Park School on a new volunteer program that just started earlier this month. The program involves seniors going to the school on Tuesday and Thursday mornings to listen to children read out loud. This is a one-to-one program between a volunteer and a student from Grades Two through Five. The goal is to help students develop more confidence in their reading skills. Principal Levi Brown coordinates the program and directs volunteers to teachers who have requested this help.

"Both teachers and students are excited about the program," said Head.

More volunteers are welcome. Anyone interested in more information on the program or the club may contact Gould at 824-3226.

Town owed $31,000

Town Manager Jim Doar recommended that Bethel's town attorney pursue collection of $31,599 from Savage Contracting for an unpaid paving bill from last year.

"We still have not been paid by the Savages for paving the Osgood Road," told selectmen.

"They said they would pay half of it. That was in FY'11. We paved it the summer of 2011. We sent a bill Dec. 15, 2011, sent a reminder Jan. 16 of 2012, sent another reminder June 12 of 2012. We still haven't been paid $31,599. I'm going to have the town attorney move to collect, and I think they should be removed from all bids until the town is paid."

The board agreed with that course of action.

(Note: On Wednesday of this week Ron Savage said his company has a building lot on that road under contract, and as soon as they close on it the bill will be paid in full, likely within two weeks.)

In other business last week, Doar said excise tax collections this year are nearly at the 2009 level. "They had been decreasing," he said.

Selectmen also heard a year-end report on police coverage from Sheriff Wayne Gallant. He said the numbers of calls per year has dropped since the Oxford County Sheriff's Department took over coverage in mid-2010. He noted particularly that calls in the early morning hours had declined.

The board also made appointments/reappointments to several town boards.

They included Arlan Jodrey and Hiram Towle to the Bethel Airport Authority; Dr. Lennie Shaw to the Board of Appeals; Jim Bennett, David Crockett, Robert Everett, and Michael Jodrey to the Budget Committee: Fran Head to the Comprehensive Plan Committee; Richard Blanco to the Planning Board; Carol Boden and Allen Cressy to the Ordinance Review Committee; James Merrill, Mary Scanlon and Todd Wheeler to the Recreation Board; and Brent Angevine to the Bethel Water District.

The Comprehensive Plan Committee, which is being revived to update the 1998 plan, needs a total of nine members.

ing/shooting courses at the 4-H Camp. All expressed hope the situation could be worked out to everyone's satisfaction. Code Enforcement Officer Joelle-Corev Whitman reported on several properties for which she has been working the owners to get them cleaned up, including ones on South and North Main streets and the Perkins Valley Road. She also provided an update on illegal tree-cutting on the property of Ken Roberts on North Pond. She said he has not yet paid a $1,875 fine imposed, and the board decided to up the penalty if payment is not received by Jan. 15. The board also discussed using $460 from the Conservation Commission budget that typically supports scholarships to the 4-H Camp to build a walking trail near the Woodstock Elementary School. Maxfield said no one had applied for the camp scholarships this year.

The Fire Department has applied for two grants, according to firefighter Tom Hartford. One would be in the amount of $24,000 for traffic control trailers, and the other to obtain house numbers for residents to aid firefighters in locating homes during a fire call.

Hartford said the WFD had 123 calls this year, most of them traffic-accident related.

Chairman Bob Elliot of the Wind Ordinance Committee reported that the Androscoggin Valley

Council of Governments is doing a technical review of a proposed ordinance the committee crafted. It will then be ready to go to the town attorney. The board approved spending up to $1,000 for that purpose. Townspeople are expected to vote on the ordinance at the annual town meeting in March. The G&W is purchasing a new backhoe for $29,500 in Cumberland, Selectman Rick Young said. The 580 SuperL Case has 4,200 hours on it, he said.

A special town meeting also took place the same evening. A handful of voters approved $24,843 from the 2012 Overlay Account to cover unanticipated expenses in the Highway and Municipal Utilities Accounts.

Bethel

tions on your birthday, Edna! In 2009, the town of Bethel presented Edna with the Boston Post Cane, which is given to the oldest citizen in many New England towns. The tradition began in August 1909 when Edwin A, Grozier, publisher of the Boston Post newspaper, sent ebony canes with 14-carat gold heads to 700 New England towns with the request that each town give the cane to their oldest male citizen. Upon. that person's death, the cane would be transmitted to the next oldest male citizen. In 1930, after much controversy, eligibility for the canes was opened to women. Over the years, many towns have lost or misplaced the original Boston Post canes. Some canes have been stolen. Bethel, however, has been able to continue the tradition. The Boston Post was not so fortunate. Once considered one of the nation's leading newspapers, it stopped publication in 1957, a victim of competipers, radio, and television. More than 100 people attended Bethel's Living Nativity on Sunday, Dec. 23, on the town common. After a week of snowstorms and flooding rains, the weather cooperated for the performance. Temperatures were in the high twenties, with cloudy skies, and a few snow flurries. This reenactment of the first Christmas has been a Bethel tradition since 1964.

The last column for 2012! I hope everyone had a safe and happy holiday and that the new year will bring much happiness to My brother, Steve McLain, was in town last Tuesday night. The weather and the roads were bad, so he came with Lise to the Gilead School Board meeting at the town office. Ann Choquette and Dave Murphy, who is Gilead's Superintendent, were also present for the meeting.

Lise McLain attended the Christmas party on Thursday at the SAD 44 transportation department. She also went to Portland over the weekend to complete her Christmas shopping.

Our grandson, Benjamin Chapman, who is home from the Coast Guard Academy, spent some time with us this past weekend. His dad, Chris, called Saturday night to talk with him. We went to Gorham, N.H., to visit with Tim, Michele and Sidney. Ben has to return to the Academy by Jan. 4.

The Ladies Aid Association plans to start serving breakfasts Sunday, Dec.

30. The coffee is hot, the food is always good, and it is a great, casual, setting to visit with neighbors and friends.

My sleds are still at the snowmobile doctor's, getting their fall tuneup, so I have not been out riding. I have noticed that some trails have already been groomed, and I am ready to get out there and ride. Please hurry up Doc.

Bob and Laurie Brown hosted a Christmas party and dinner Saturday, Dec. 22; it was a full house. Approximately 45 people were there to enjoy the food and festivities. Thanks guys for the fun and the food.

Many years ago I read an article about the development of anti-lock brakes. As I remember it, the article said that the brakes were tested in Corvettes, 100-plus miles per hour, on salt flats. I do not very often drive 100 mph, I haven't been in a Corvette since about 1975, and I have never seen a salt flat. I do drive places like Grafton Notch, Dixville Notch and other steep, slippery local roads. It is my opinion that the anti-lock brake system is one of the most horribly dangerous ideas anyone has come up with since trying to split frozen wood with a doublebitted axe. The proponents of anti-lock brakes should try driving an older vehicle equipped with them, during a snowstorm, traveling up and over Dixville

Albany

Greetings from Albany. The old clock is ticking away the hours until New Year's. Luckily there is some snow left to make it seem like this time of year. Everyone is busy getting ready to gather with their loved ones. I will be joining Doug and family on Christmas.

Margaret Barton visited her aunt, Jan Jacobs, in Lewiston this afternoon. Roger and Yvette Barton visited Franklin while she was gone.

Isabella spent the day with me yesterday and we had a sleepover last night. So much fun! I hope everyone has a wonderful Christmas and a very happy New Year.

Dec. 20 column Mas is very quiet and peaceful day. The sun has withdrawn itself and left us with a very light dusting of snow. Maybe will have a nice white Christmas after all! Things are very busy at school. Last Tuesday the fourth grade took a field trip to Augusta where they visited the legislative and senate chambers, the Blaine House and the Maine State Museum. We had a great time as they are a wonderful group of boys and girls. They are a very well behaved group also. They are studying about Maine and all about how our government operates.

On Saturday evening Jane Wardwell, Margaret Barton and I went to Auburn to attend a Christmas musical at the Universalist Church. We enjoyed the music of Mr. Philip House and The Dave Rowe

We also enjoyed a very good meal at The Tin Tin Buffet.

Margaret and Franklin Barton went to Brownfield on Thursday to visit Mr.and Mrs. Roger Barton. Sunday they had dinner at Jim and Dolly Bar-

I hope the weather cooperates so everyone can get all they need to do before Christmas is done. Have a wonderful holiday with your families and friends.

The Greenwood Fire Department is giving a big present to Region 9 School of Applied Technology in Mexico, The school will be receiving a white fire truck from us. Originally given to Greenwood by the Hope, Maryland, fire department, we have replaced it. Region 9 has a high school-level Firefighter 1 course, and they will be able to use the white one to train students taking this course. That truck is still at our fire station but will eventually go to Region 9.

The Greenwood Selectmen met last week and decided they will not pay double-time on holidays to the firefighters. If the station is staffed on a holiday, firefighters will receive straight time. At their previous meeting, Selectmen discussed the fact that for the last two years all fire departments across the State have been expected to pick up traffic control duties at emergencies. As Town Manager Kim Sparks said, "It is one more thing that is being pushed on us." Our property taxes, and those of all other towns, appear to be helping to balance the State budget. A little food for thought there.

Dan Gibbs of Bethel bought the 1980 fire truck with a $3,800 bid. That money will go back to the fire department account. The Town Office will be open until 4 p.m. Dec. 31 and closed New Year's Day.

The Greenwood Planning Board will be meeting only once a month until the spring.

at Maggie's Nature Park along the Greenwood Road are a good place to go. We now have about two minutes more daylight since the solstice last week, and it's a good time to be outside. As my grandmother and my mother always said, "Go outside, get some fresh air, and blow the stink off.'

While not as pithy as the women in my family, Garrison Keillor has the following quote about winter. "Growing up in a place that has winter, you learn to avoid self-pity. Winter is not a personal experience, everybody else is as cold as you, so you shouldn't complain about it too much. You learn this as a kid, coming home crying from the cold and Mother looks down and says, 'It's only a little frostbite. You're okay.' And thus you learn to be

It's folksy and cute and goes well on a coffee cup, but it romanticizes the image of the hardy Northerner just a bit. Winter certainly controls our lives with the cold, the weather, the expense, the danger, the darkness, the driving and walking conditions. We seem to accept it and get along. And, we complain about it with either too little or too much snow and then proceed to compare it to winters of the past. Maybe the complaining is another pastime to help us get through the present winter as well as revisit winters of old. Sorry, Garrison, I think we need to complain!

year. As usual this time of year we like to look back and pick an item that was especially interesting. This year we chose neighbor Robert (Pete) Barlow for being selected as technical school instructor of the year. He has been a well-respected employee at Region 9 School of Applied Technology for many years. Once again, congratulations to the honoree and thanks for the effort provided to earn it.

The Hanover Town Office will be open Monday, Dec. 31 (New Year's Eve) from 5 to 7:30 p.m. for those who wish to take advantage of the early pay discount for their taxes. Two percent will be subtracted from the taxes paid in full before closing of business on Monday. Dog, hunting and fishing licenses run out Dec. 31 as well.

The Hanover Select Board held their monthly meeting on Dec. 18 with two members present. One Select Person was absent due to the difficult winter storm that evening. The Board discussed several assessing issues and signed warrants.

There seems to be a more visible showing in the area recently of the Sheriff's Deputies and State Police. It is gratifying to have the additional coverage in the area. The ice floats in the Androscoggin River have collected downstream creating an ice jam dam in the area of McDonald's along Route 2. In other weather news the snowstorms that turned to sleet and freezing rain were inconvenient. There are some very icy driveways caused by the slush refreezing when the temperatures dropped after the storms.

I hope all had a very good holiday and plan on having a great New Year. We are taking it easy this year, at least that is the plan. We are off to dinner at Beck and Jeff's then a low-key day for Christmas. I hope the weather allows some walking. Not enough snow here to ski, but enough ice that I might be able to snowshoe.

Last week's weather left me achy and down. I am looking forward to better days. I at least made it into town to set up gift baskets for the staff at Fare Share, I hope they enjoy them. The entire board of directors pitched in with special help from Cyndy. Thursday, the 27th. weather permitting, ACOA will meet at the Waterford Library at 10 a.m. FMI please call 739-9115. Not too much open this week as all are busy celebrating holidays.

Saturday, the 29th there is a full moon hike at Mt Abram. Transportation provided for boards, skis and boots so people can ski or board down. Fee for transportation is $5.

Monday, the 31st is New Year's Eve. There is a dance at South Paris Legion Hall, Church Street. The Jones Band will play. Tickets are $10.

According to the Farmer's Almanac, this is the Cold Moon. I hope the sky will be clear and we can see it. That is all for this week. Thanks to all for your support as I try and rid myself of the Lymies. If anyone has news they would like to have printed, please call 739-9115.

November Super Heroes: The Telstar Middle School Faculty was proud to recognize 6th grader, Joseph Sicotte; 7th grader, Beth Gibson; and 8th grader Natasha Hart for their exemplary effort and perseverance with regard to their academic success, as well as their setting a positive example to their peers in overall attitude and behavior. Way to go Super Heroes!

On Dec. 7 theTelstar High School Student Council gave a presentation on the 'Use Another Word" campaign, which focuses on encouraging students to replace words that are inflammatory to others with those that show respect and improve the school environment. Prime Time Ski Club news

Prime Time Skiers were not on the slopes in great numbers last week, but we were there saying "good morning" to one another, taking advantage of new snow on Monday and excellent grooming on Thursday. Tuesday, a day best forgotten, was a "Hot Chocolate" stay at home for many of us. Please, Santa, bring us some snow!

Many members of Prime Time will be at the Sunday River Mahoosuc Room after the Holidays to kick off the primary skiing season. The North Peak Lodge will be open by then, and the 10 a.m. meeting of Club members will resume around a cup of tea or a cup of hot chocolate.

Meanwhile, consider a little celebrating at the Foggy Goggle tonight at the Sunday River sponsored fireworks.

Come and join us. See what we're about at www. primetimeskiclub.com. The Primetime Ski Club is an independent ski and social club welcoming anyone 50 and over. They meet weekdays at 10 a.m. at Sunday River's North Peak Lodge to form daily ski groups based on ability, terrain, and social aspects.

Gould Academy news:

Help centers provide custom peer tutoring

By Courtney Colaluca '13 Academy help centers provide a perfect resource and opportunity for students to get custom help in core subjects. They are organized by teachers from each department. and involve volunteer peer tutors.

The help centers develop a sense of community throughout the student body. The tutors volunteer because they care about helping their peers be successful. "Students are able to get help just about every night of the week in a variety of subjects, and they get to work with other students who have an interest in helping other students and also have a strength in that subject area," said Holly Tornrose, English teacher and Writing Center director, "It's a really great opportunity for basically the whole community to help one another, and to become even more successful in their studies."

The students can use the help centers for any type of extra help they could need. Each student gets to work with one peer tutor. and focus on what they struggle with. Zee '13 is in his third year as a writing center tutor. He helps with any stage of the writing process a student is in, from rough draft to a thesis statement.

"I think that the help centers, math, writing, language and science center, are really important at Gould because it gives a chance for students to connect with one another, especially for students who need help in certain areas," said Zee. "It's a perfect outlet for students to receive help on anything they are struggling with, and since it's one-onone students really get the help they need."

The help centers focus on what each individual student requires.

Emma '16, uses the language center to get extra help on her French homework.

"I like going to the help centers because it helps with my French, working on writing sentences and knowing the vocabulary. It also puts you on a oneto-one level during study hall, which makes it really easy to get extra help," she said.

McLaughlin Garden and Homestead: "Community Grows Here"

In 2012 the McLaughlin Garden and Homestead in South Paris, Maine attained fifteen years as a nationally recognized, unique public attraction. The property's history began in the early 1800s and represents the evolution of home, barn and garden. For many years Bernard McLaughlin was the property's steward and creator of this vernacular garden.

Preserving these treasures and expanding the enjoyment and participation in the continuing story of the McLaughlin Garden and Homestead is the focal point of the current Annual Appeal.

Many, many people have been touched by the Garden and Homestead in different ways - for some it's the beauty of the gardens, for some it is the historic barn, for others it is the lovely 19th Century homestead in the middle of a modern-day main street setting. Simply said, when people step on the property they know it is Special. 2012 draws to a close after a full year of wonderful events like the Winter Lecture Series, Wildflower Celebration, Lilac Festival, Garden IIluminated and Art in the Barn exhibits.

Thanks to an education grant awarded by Project Canopy, the State of Maine Forest Service's community-forest gram, over 100 identification labels now appear on many of the trees and shrubs in the garden. Two grants awarded this year provide for building restoration needs.

The Davis Family Foundation Grant and the Maine Community Foundation's Belvedere Grant have been allocated to take care of maintenance issues.

The Liberty Mutual Lew-commitment as Season Underwriter and sends its employees to volunteer on the annual "Serve with Liberty" day. Many local businesses and individuals from near and far faithfully support the Foundation by sponsoring events, becoming members, responding to the Annual Appeal and spending countless hours volunteering in one way or another.

Exciting plans for 2013 include a kitchen renovation in order to re-open the café and once again provide the community with a gathering place to linger after a garden tour, a program or a stop at the gift shop. This is a major undertaking which will enhance future events, weddings and program delivery. The Foundation's Annual Appeal is hopeful that specific funding requests will be well received.

The last fifteen years resulted in the rescue and rehabilitation of a truly historic gem right here in our community for all of us to enjoy.

The beauty, tranquility and grace of the gardens, home and barn must be experienced to be fully appreciated.

The McLaughlin Garden and Homestead is committed to delivering experiences, events and programs that will expand its role as a very special piece of Maine.

Visit this living treasure and play a part in local history.

Sports Rumford Rec League Basketball

In one of the biggest games so far this year, The Bethel Bobcats (4-0) shook off some early game emotions and gutted out a solid 101-83 victory over Hotel Rumford (3-1) in the last game of the day. Hotel was playing without big man Issac Stickney, but Bethel lost one of their big men early in the game also.

Thus both teams were evenly matched. Bethelled

However, that was overcome in the closing minutes with clutch shooting from the line and the floor by The Bobcats.

Bethel was led by Wade Osgood with 26 points (8-9 > age 22 points (4 threes), Matt Newell 15 points (3 threes) and Sean Caddigan 12 points (7-8 from the line). Hotel Rumford got balanced scoring from Chris Willer with 19 points (12-15 from the foul line), Aaron St. Pierre 18 (13-15 from the line). Craig Milledge 15 points and Kevin Gallant 13 points(4 threes).

In the first game, Black Bear Industries (1-3) secured its first win of the season outpacing Archies (1-3), 115-94.

The other game saw Laid Back Installers (3-1) blow out The Thundercats (0-4), 102-36.

Chris Baxter was immense inside with 40 points for LBI. Jon Beniamin helped with 20 points, while Brian Canwell had 13 and JT Tavlor 10. Tom Leclerc had a nice game for The Thundercats with 15 points. Next Sunday's (Dec.

IRVING W. BROWN Irving W. Brown, 91, passed away on Dec. 20, 2012 at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris.

He was born to Carl L. and Ruth M. Brown, Aug. 3, 1921, in Bethel. After graduating from Gould Academy, he enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Force. Irving was a proud veteran who earned the rank of tech, sergeant in World War II. He served with the 6th Airdrome Squadron in England and Germany. While serving in England, he met and married Hilda Mary Wright, who died on Jan. 11, 2011, a member of the British Royal Air Force. Upon returning to Maine after the war, they made their lifelong home in Bethel, where they raised their four children, of whom they were very proud.

Irving engaged in a variety of careers, working many years in the local mills. Upon the construction of Telstar High School. Irving became head custodian, where he worked until retirement. He had a natural ability to fix and repair things and enjoyed working with wood.

Survivors include four children, David and wife Judi, Kathleen and husband Larry, Suki, and Bob and wife Suzanne; eight grandchildren; and seven greatgrandchildren.

A special thanks to the Maine Veterans' Home and Rumford Community Home.

Condolences may be shared with the family at www.chandlerfunerals. com.x

2/19/1947.- 12/29/1992

In memory of my beloved twin sister, Jean, on the 20th anniversary of our earthly parting. How I've missed sharing life's ups and downs with you physically and grieve that you were unable to finish raising your family. Yet I feel your spirit watching over us always. As promised, God did not leave me comfortless. As you and I shared everything (starting 9 mo. before most siblings get that opportunity!), I've been blessed to love and share the family you started you had the toddlers, I had the teens!

Until we meet again always loving and missing you.
